CAN WE REALLY LEARN FROM HISTORY?

Stan Deaton
Georgia
Historical Society

Stan Deaton of the Georgia Historical Society is hopeful that the human race can learn from history. In speaking to Rotarians Thursday, Deaton used World War I (noting that August 4 marked the 100 year anniversary of Great Britain entering that War) to emphasize his hope. The Great War actually began when Archduke Ferdinand of Austria and his wife were assassinated in Sarajevo by 1 of a group of 5 Serbs and 1 Bosnian. The act led to the declaration of war by Austria-Hungary on Serbia and declarations of war by Russia, Germany, and England within weeks. WWI is acknowledged as the most horrific war of all times. Deaton stated that over 37 million casualties (deaths and severe wounds) occurred over the next 4 years. He used the death of 18-year-old British foot soldier Alec Reeder on July 1, 2016, at 0-Hour of the Battle of the Somme to underscore the quote, "One death is a tragedy. The death of millions is a statistic." Reeder's mother, Rose, tirelessly worked to find some knowledge of her son's death and the location of his remains. She even traveled to France several times in her search, but she died in 1954 never knowing more than he died in battle. Reeder's family never recovered from the grief over his battlefield death. Deaton said, "Now! Multiply that family's grief by 37 million!" Deaton also spoke to the impact of the carnage of WWI in causing the economic instability of Europe and the economic collapse of Germany, which led to German discontent, rebellion, fascism, and eventually The Third Reich. "What if there had been no Great War?" Deaton asked. He stated that much of the history of the 20th Century would likely be very different including no WWII, no Bolshevik Revolution, no Great Depression, etc. "Our world would have been very different," he said. Basically, a Serbian assassin's bullet started this chain of events. Deaton asked what we might do now and in the future if an incident like this occurred again. "Could we negotiate to avoid such an event as this?" he asked. Yes, Stan Deaton, can we learn from history?
